

Contents

Introduction	vii
Abbreviations	xiii
Chapter 1: Geography and social inquiry: An effective tag team? Mike Taylor and Louise Richards	1
Chapter 2: Subject-specific literacy: Reappraising the role of reading and writing in New Zealand geography classrooms Rowena Taylor and Ken Kilpin	21
Chapter 3: Concepts and conceptual understanding in issues-based geography Andrea Milligan, Jody Plummer and Mike Taylor	39
Chapter 4: The development sector in the geography classroom Rachel Tallon	56
Chapter 5: Adjusting the focus of perspectives in school geography Mike Taylor	72
Chapter 6: ‘Who, what, where, when, why and how?’: Using simple questions to spark geographical imaginations Bill Howie	91
Chapter 7: Advancing Scholarship/scholarship in geography classrooms Lex Chalmers	107
Chapter 8: Geography education in the future, tense John Morgan	123
Endnotes	136
Contributors	139
Index	142

Figures

Figure 1.1: The social inquiry framework	5
Figure 1.2: Tags, pieces, turf war, and politics: graffiti in Wellington city centre	11
Figure 1.3: Graffiti in memoriam : Paris and Wellington, January 2015	13
Figure 1.4: Stimulus questions for graffiti themed social inquiry	17
Figure 3.1: Concepts related to the key conceptual understanding	49
Figure 3.2: A students' concept frame for perception	50
Figure 4.1: Living at the margins	67
Figure 5.1: The geographic perspective	74
Figure 5.2: Newspaper resource exploring the Christchurch rebuild	81
Figure 5.3: Post-quake Christchurch: CBD blueprint	84
Figure 6.1: The GI equation	100

Tables

Table 1.1: Three inquiry frameworks for geography teaching and learning	7
Table 3.1: Central concepts of international school geography	41
Table 3.2: Moving towards second level conceptual thinking	51
Table 5.1: The explicit assessment of 'perspectives' in NCEA examinations	79
Table 6.1: Examples of student questions on the New Zealand deer industry	101
Table 6.2: Examples of student questions on the proposed Nicaragua Canal	102
Table 7.1: Geography Scholarship summary statistics	111